

A personal guide for English speaking exchange students – Ein Unterrichtsprojekt für die Klassen 8–9

Fanny Tahn, Bad Schwartau

„Nicht schon wieder irgendwelche Texte schreiben!“ Haben Sie auch manchmal Schwierigkeiten, Ihre Lerner für die Textproduktion zu motivieren? Häufig liegt dies daran, dass die Schreiblässe zu wenig mit dem Alltagsleben der Jugendlichen zu tun haben und von ihnen als künstlich empfunden werden. Das Verfassen und Erstellen eines Personal Guide for English Speaking Exchange Students bietet hier eine gelungene Alternative. Die adressatengerechte und zielgerichtete Produktion einer Informationsbroschüre zu einer ausgewählten deutschen Stadt im näheren Umfeld der Schüler schafft Verbindlichkeit und öffnet den Klassenraum hin zur real English-speaking world.

In ihren Broschüren stellen die Schüler Informationen für Jugendliche zu einer deutschen Stadt vor.

General information for the group work

Let's start! You will create a brochure<sup>1</sup> for English speaking exchange students.

Before you start, read the following information about your group work.

1. Each group prepares one folder with all the material you have collected and worked on throughout the project.
2. Each group chooses one group leader who is the head of the group, responsible for having the material (folder) at hand as well as maintaining<sup>2</sup> a respectful and fair working atmosphere.
3. Although every group has a leader, each group member always has to take care of<sup>3</sup> their material and tasks. During the next lessons, you are not only responsible for yourself but for your group as well.

The title page of our group folder

Your group folder needs a title page.

- Individually design and illustrate the title page of your group folder (format: A4).
- Make sure it contains your group number, the names of all group members as well as the town you have chosen.

Homework: Collecting material

By _____ (date), please collect material with information about the town your group has chosen for the project. Keep this material in your group folder.

The more material you collect, the more you can select<sup>1</sup> later on!

Select your information carefully. Keep in mind that your brochure has to be interesting for exchange students your age. Ask yourself what you would like to know about a foreign town.

1 to select: auswählen

Making the brochure

1) Fold<sup>1</sup> A2 paper widthways<sup>2</sup> into three equal<sup>3</sup> panels<sup>4</sup> and unfold. Then fold the paper in half lengthways<sup>5</sup> and unfold.

2) Cut down the top right crease<sup>6</sup> and the bottom left crease.

3) Cut out a window on the bottom left crease.

4) Fold the two left panels to the front. Fold the two right panels behind.

5) Turn the book around like in the picture.

6) Fold the window panel to the right; it's the front page now. Fold the remaining<sup>7</sup> left panel behind; it's the last page of the book.

1 to fold sth.: etwas falten – 2 widthways: der Breite nach – 3 equal: gleich – 4 panel: hier: der Streifen – 5 lengthways: der Länge nach – 6 crease: hier: die Falte – 7 remaining: übrig
